AN OFFSHORE CUSTOM APACHE 28'

BY KEVIN SPAISE

Florida's inland and offshore waterways are teeming with wildlife, making the Gulf State a veritable haven for lovers of things wild and natural. Ditto for those whose tastes lean more to the mechanical side of the spectrum—they're just as likely to see an ongoing parade of fiberglass scenery as they are creatures indigenous to the area.

No matter how exotic the aquascape may be on any given day, however, there are a number of breeds that are almost guaranteed to cause even the most callous of high-performance enthusiasts to do a double take. One such species is the Apache, which is known to thunder through Eastern offshore haunts with some regularity.
